DETAILED ACTION

Double Patenting

1. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.3218 may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 1-20 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-19 of U.S. Patent No. 6,034,680. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other.

3. The limitations found in claims 1, 3-7, and 18 of this application are the same as in claims 1-19 of US 6,034,680 with the exception of the recited "establishing a portal of supplementary information...providing a kiosk for interacting with said portal..." However, the user of a kiosk as an interface display device is well known in the art. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one ordinarily skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to use kiosks for providing an interface because a kiosk is a special interactive graphical user interface that allows the users to enter their queries and to trace the searching and retrieval of the information, and it enhances the effectiveness and efficiency of information retrieval.

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1-20 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The claims have been carefully considered, especially independent claims 1 and 20. Prior art of record fails to teach the combination of claimed elements including a common location accessible to users of a portal for supplying hierarchical supplementary information related to printed books, the books having a bookmark associated with the common address; a user identifier that is provided to the user based on the user's class, and in response to the user's calls, displaying secondary hypermedia documents having supplementary information appropriate to the books associated with the user-specified common address and relating to the associated user class.

Saigh discloses an information distribution system that includes a central information bank and a central transactional database coupled to point-of-sale delivery systems. The point-of-sale delivery systems may take the form of a book bank subsystem. The point-of-sale delivery systems are classified by functions including a point of purchase delivery system and a book bank subsystem. The point of purchase system is described as a system from which books can be purchased and includes a Book Bank and a cashier's station. Saigh fails to teach that printed books are associated with a common uniform address referencing to a corresponding hypermedia document, which includes links to secondary hypermedia documents.

Blonder teaches a method for providing structured tours of hypertext files. A hypertext file contains links which when selected by a user cause another page to be displayed.

Applications in which hypertext files are used are on a web site. These files are written in HTML and may reside on a computer with an Internet address. The tour is selected by a user from a tour service page, and is comprised of a set of predetermined pages and an automated tour guide. Blonder shows an embodiment of a tour service page that has graphics selectable by a user indicating the categories of Entertainment, Education, and Finance. After the selection of a graphic the user is presented with a new page that shows a selection of tours. After a tour is selected, an introductory screen with information is displayed to the user. Blonder fails to teach bookmarks included in printed books, the bookmarks enabling a user to access supplementary information related to the printed book and associated with the user identifier.

Conclusion

3. Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

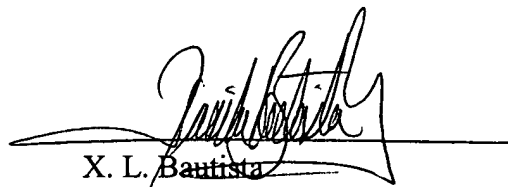

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
